WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our Special Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, June 24, 1894.
Political sensations are not every day occurrences in Washington at this season of the year, but one, of the first magnitude, has followed the statement of a member of the Cabinet, that President Cleveland regarded it as certain that the Republican and Democratic parties would both split on the silver question and that the next campaign would be fought solely on that issue, and that all past differences would be forgotten and the members of all parties would line up as silver or gold men and not as Republicans, Democrats and Populists.

He further stated that President Cleveland considered the logical candidate of the gold party, and believed that he would be nominated and elected. This view of the situation has been taken by others, but this is the first time that it has been authoritatively stated as President Cleveland's view of it. The silver men say they would ask nothing better than a fight on that line against Mr. Cleveland, who they regard as their arch enemy.

Members of the administration are shouting over the victory they claim to have won over the silver Democrats in Kentucky. They say that previous to the publication of President Cleveland's anti-silver letter the silver sentiment in Kentucky was stronger than in any state in the south, with the possible exception of Texas, and that if they could win in Kentucky they could win in all the other Southern States. The silver men admit that the news from Kentucky is not encouraging to their success in the south, but they do not admit defeat until the state convention, which meets next week, acts.

Col. W. W. Dudley, of Indiana, was for a long time regarded as one of the shrewdest campaign managers of his party, but since the first Harrison campaign he has not taken an active part in politics. In a published interview he gives the Republican party some advice, which is highly pleasing to the silver members of the party. He said: "I am sure that the Republican managers would make a great mistake if they were to conduct the campaign as not to carry the requisite number of votes in the electoral college, and then throw the election into the House of Representatives. This is only to be done by so framing issues or enacting legislation as to drive the western and northwestern states away from their allegiance to the Republican party. To so legislate, or so act in convention, as to make it impossible for those states to give us their electoral votes, would almost inevitably result in driving them away from the Republican party permanently. If the western and northwestern states should be lost to the Republican party in the electoral college, what promise or hope is there, the election being thrown thereby into the House, that Republican Representatives from those states, as now elected, could be held to the Republican candidate? We must look this danger squarely in the face, and it can only be averted by great wisdom, conservatism and patriotism on the part of Republicans. We cannot afford to throw the election into the House. One of the objects Col. Dudley had in view when he made public his opinion is already accomplished. That is, the killing of the plan advocated by many anti-silver Republicans, for throwing the election of the President into the House, in case the silver Republicans should object to the platform of candidates. Col. Dudley has shown it to be very risky. Senator Stewart, of Nevada, is president of a stock company which has been chartered under the laws of Virginia, under the name, "Supreme Temple of the Silver Knights of America," with a capital of $100,000 divided into shares of $100 each. The objects, as stated in the application for charter, being to establish a secret society for the purpose of seeking to secure legislation providing for the free coinage of silver in the U. S. and to make silver a legal tender for all its public and private.

Representative-elect Skinner, of North Carolina, who is at present in Washington, has been thinking about next year, and as a result says: "A good many people have not stopped to consider that the two-third rule in the Democratic National convention will put an effective check to the nomination of a silver man. It is not until the two-thirds vote for free silver cannot be obtained, it is idle to expect the Democracy to adopt a free-coinage plank or nominate a free-coinage man. The Democrats, therefore, can not and the Republicans will not declare for the white metal, and so the friends of free silver will have no recourse but to become Populists."

HAD TO MARRY.

A Pistol Persuaded Aloysius Gerber To Marry Miss Stengel.

Aloysius Gerber, a barbon on Jefferson street, near Jackson, and Ada Stengel a niece of contractor Stengel, were married by Justice Haus in Jeffersonville at a late hour Thursday night. It was not exactly a matter of choice with Gerber that the ceremony was performed.

About two years ago Miss Stengel came to this country from Germany and found employment at Frank Henry's, Market and Preston streets, as a domestic. Here she met Gerber, who often went to the place to get a lunch. Recently the girl found herself in an embarrassing condition. Gerber became devoted in his attentions to Miss Stengel and kept away from her entirely of late. She told her uncle her trouble and he went to the barber shop Thursday night and laid the matter before Gerber, suggesting that a marriage would settle the differences satisfactorily.

Gerber replied that he had been thinking of this course and would make up his mind in a few days. "You'll make up your mind now," said the relative of the ruined girl, "or I'll fill you full of holes," emphasizing his threat with a revolver that was thrust in the barber's face. As soon as arrangements could be made Gerber went to Stengel's house, and with the girl and her maid crossed to Jeffersonville—Carriers' Journal.

THE SNAKE HEAD

Bitten Off by the Schweinfurth Disciple on a Wager.

Hythe Anderson, an adherent to Schweinfurth's doctrine, came in from his country home, near Lexington, and got on a tremendous jag. He had all kinds of coin and made many propositions. He wanted to bet on anything from a horse race to the winner of the legislative race. A crowd of sports were congregated in an up-town saloon when Hythe came in and produced his roll. One of the crowd offered to bet him $5 that he wouldn't touch a blacksnake which the bartender cherished as a pet. Hythe pressed the bet to $35, and said he would bet $25 more that he would bite the snake's head off. The bet was taken, and it was agreed that the winner should pay for the snake. With should pay for the snake. With should pay for the snake. With should pay for the snake.

MILLIONS OF Acres

Will Soon be Added to the Homestead Areas of the West.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—Millions and millions of acres are to be added to the great homestead areas of the west. The last congress enacted a law providing that the general government shall donate to each state in which there are arid lands one million acres of such lands on condition that the reclamation is done by the states. Already Idaho and Wyoming have complied with all the formalities of the law, and have taken steps toward securing a million acres of land within their borders. Lieutenant Governor Miles of Idaho and E. M. Mayo, of Wyoming, both engineers appointed by their respective states, are here to complete the final arrangements. Their mission promises to be very successful, for they are receiving from Land Commissioner Lamaroux the most cordial co-operation.

The steps which are now being taken to transform an immense section of arid country into fertile and fruitful fields," said the commissioner, "will without doubt be far-reaching in their effects. Up to present time the arid sections of the west have been lying barren because the government could not be induced to enter upon wholesale irrigation and private corporations found the task both gigantic and in a certain sense unprofitable. Under the new law, however, the state is to undertake the work and is to sell the land in sections of not over 100 acres to any one person for such price as can be obtained. The government retains possession for five years, and if at the end of that time the reclamation appears to be permanent the title to the land passes to the state and thence to the settler. This means homes and farms for a multitude of people.

"Millions and millions of acres will be a course of time be reclaimed under these new conditions. The work may not and doubtless will not be finished in your day and mine, but it has begun and that means everything."

A RACER

Coils Itself About the Arm of a Berry Picker.

GREENSBORO, Ky., June 21.—Early this morning, James, the twelve-year-old son of William Howard, who lives a few miles from here, went into a raspberry patch to gather berries for the market. While he was picking in a thick cluster of vines, a large blue racer darted out from among them and coiled itself about the little boy's arm, and thrusting its head up, went his face, darted out its tongue in a most threatening manner. The lad was almost frightened to death, and after making an unsuccessful endeavor to shake the reptile off, started for home, screaming at the top of his voice. The boy's mother, attracted by his cries, ran to meet him, but was so horror-stricken at beholding his danger, that it was some time before she could collect her senses sufficiently to act. Meanwhile, the lad, being somewhat reassured by the presence of his mother, seized the serpent by the neck and choked it until it became limp and fell from his arm, when the mother seized a club and dispatched it.

Shooting Scrape at Whitesburg.

WHITESBURG, Ky., June 19.—News comes from Hyden, Leslie county, that a man named Higenot and James Banks, two notorious mountain desperadoes, met on the streets of Hyden intoxicated, and a quarrel ensued, resulting in a pitched battle "early" yesterday morning. Higenot was shot twice in the abdomen and once in the arm fatally wounding him. Banks was shot in the leg and seriously wounded. Banks is now in the Leslie county jail to await trial for his crime. Higenot is expected to die hourly.

BANANA FLOUR,

Likely to Develop Into a Very Important Industry.

A good deal of attention has been drawn of late to the use of the banana as a source of flour or meal, and though such an application is by no means new, or the discovery modern, it seems not unlikely that banana flour is an article that has a prospect of great development in the near future. Wherever the banana or plantain thrive the fruits, when dry, are converted into meal and used for making cakes, puddings, and for various other uses in cookery. An effort is being made to establish a factory for the manufacture of banana meal.

As to the use of banana flour for brewing purposes, Mr. Kahle, one of the best known manufacturers of yeast in Germany, writes in this connection: "Banana flour, without doubt, from its richness in starch and its good flavor is particularly suitable for the manufacture of yeast. This flour is easily rendered saccharine. The yeast obtained by adding banana flour to the other ingredients has a good color, all the requisite properties of an excellent class of yeast, and, moreover, keeps well. The alcohol obtained from it leaves nothing to be desired, so that this flour may be introduced as an article of commerce, and employed without any special preparation. Satisfactory experiments have also been made in some breweries, where 20 per cent of malt has been replaced by the flakes and flour of bananas. The flavor of beer was not altered, and the quantity of liquid was increased, and the malt was replaced by a less expensive substance."

A SPRING OF PURE RYE WHISKY

Said to Have Been Discovered by a Farmer—Its Presence a Mystery.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 23.—A remarkable story of the discovery of an alleged spring of pure rye whisky comes from Smithton, a small town on the Youngbushy river. Several days ago Farmer Jones, while digging a ditch, came upon an old well. From it arose the odor of the juice of the rye, which every farmer of Westmoreland county can smell at a great distance.

The well was on an incline. An examination showed the stones of the upper wall to be covered with deep rust. From between two of the stones there was a slow but constant dripping of liquor. Calling some help Farmer Jones began digging through the stones. He struck a ledge of soft sandstone, and from a crevice in its side came the dripping whisky. To make sure of it the farmers tasted the liquor and pronounced it a fair quality of barleycorn.

After arranging to run the drippings into a cask the farmers closed up the well in order to keep the discovery secret. They will renew their explorations tomorrow. Many people think the whisky comes from a storage vault of an old distillery that probably stood where Jones began digging. The oldest inhabitant does not remember any distillery there. Barrels of whisky were probably buried in the hillside and forgotten. Now that the casks are decaying the contents ooze out through the hillside.

Farmer Jones while digging the ditch turned up a cannon ball, General Braddock on his march to Pittsburgh passed somewhere near Smithton. A few people think Braddock hid the whisky in the hillside, and, as he was killed by Indians, the secret of the hiding place died with him.

"The distilleries of Franklin county have completed their year's run, and have shut down for the summer. This will throw out of immediate employment a number of the seventeen gangsters and store-keeper gangsters who have been stationed there for a year or more."

LATE STATE NEWS.

Messrs. D. B. and S. M. Boone, jr., have bought the Somerset Reporter.

The Herald says the friends of the scheme to push the building of new school-house at Hodgenville are at work.

A great deal of petty larceny is being committed in Ashland, and the News says it is being done by the youngsters about town.

An ordinance has been introduced in the Pineville city council to revoke the licenses of the saloon-keepers on account of their repeated violations of the law.

Mrs. Harry Porter, aged ninety years, who lives near Oakland Mills, Nicholas county, has become violently insane and will be sent to the asylum.

The Mountain Echo, at London, Laurel county, is twenty-two years old, and has been published by its present owner, A. K. Dyche, eighteen years.

One case in the Ballard circuit court makes the clerk's office worth having this year. It is the Dupoyster suit, which was appealed and the transcript of the record cost $700.

Barrett McKnight, of Hopkinsville, has compromised a breach of promise suit brought against him by Miss Ennis Boales, the young lady accepting $400 for her bruised feelings.

It is proposed to establish under the general banking laws of the state of Kentucky, a bank in Smithland, Livingston county, to be known as the Ironides Bank, with a capital of $15,000, in shares of $100 each.

J. W. Davis, who eloped with a fifteen-year-old girl at Smithland, has been held over to the grand jury on a charge of seduction. The Paducah News says he has seven or eight wives, the last one being a young woman in Paducah.

Hardy Little, of Paducah, started to Cairo on a steamboat to see a circus. On the way, while he was standing perfectly still, he fell to the floor, and it was discovered his knee-cap was broken. There was no explanation of the queer accident.

The Clinton Democrat reports a man in that county has been whipping his wife ever since he was married, eighteen years ago. There is nothing surprising in the fact that the woman has submitted to it, but it looks strange that his neighbors have never used a fence rail set off with tar and feathers in his behalf.

Pearl Sommers, an Owensboro girl of eighteen who attended school in Missouri last winter, wrote to her parents recently that she had become a Catholic and was in St. Louis, where she intended to enter a nunnery. They went over there and watching the postoffice till she came for letters, got hold of her and brought her home.

A Fatal Joke.

CIRCLEVILLE, O., June 21.—Yesterday afternoon William Ross, a bright young boy, died from the effects of a severe fright. He was employed on the farm of Thomas Rader, where his new acquaintances detoured to test his nerve. Wednesday evening he was sent to the stable to close the doors. He was in the act of doing so when Rader rushed upon him. He turned to fly, and as he did so another one of the party discharged his revolver into the air. Ross ran like a deer, but fell over something and injured himself so seriously he died yesterday. His tormentors are almost beside themselves with grief over the unexpected result of their sport.

A KANSAS CYCLONE.
Swept All in its Pathway and Does Terrible Damage.

HARTFORD, KAN., June 17.—At about 5 o'clock this evening a cyclone struck this place, coming from the southwest and sweeping everything in its path, which was clean-cut and about 100 feet in width. Several persons were so badly injured that they are not expected to live. No one so far as known was killed outright. About twelve houses were destroyed, as well as many barns and out-houses. The roof of one house was lifted off as cleanly as if the house had been put up and the roof left unfinished. The remainder of the structure was unharmed. Many other houses were more or less damaged. The total loss was estimated at $20,000.

An eye witness of the storm, a traveling man from Emporia, says: "I was on the incoming M. & K. and T. train due at Hartford at 5:25. Just as the train was stopping I and another passenger noticed that the southeast corner of the station building was being blown off by a cyclone. The building was badly tilted into the air. Another second house, furniture and stoves, bedding and all kinds of material were blown up and high into the air from all directions. By this time the passengers were beginning to notice that the funnel-shaped cloud was coming straight for the car in which we were, and inquiries began as to what was best to be done. Suddenly a gentleman solved the question by saying: 'Here goes the train,' and rushed to the door, followed by every one in the car. The train, however, was not stopped, for when only about 100 feet from the car the storm center took a sudden turn southwest and swept past the rear of the train without touching it. The storm, after passing through the town to the east, seemed to jump the Neosho river, and then disappeared." Subscriptions were started here this evening for the benefit of the sufferers.

OLAH, NEB., June 17.—A cyclone at Stella, Nebraska, did great damage, but no lives were lost.

OLIVE HILL, Ky., June 10, '05. Editor Bugle:—Olive Hill, is on a boom. Fire brick works and Rev. J. A. Howard are all that is talked about. Rev. Howard just closed a meeting at Cora Hill last night with 115 additions to Christian society or Church of God, and his meeting was the full blast, but the people would have him come here, and the Presbyterian church was locked against him. New lock put on doors and windows nailed down, but Dr. Robbins kicked the door open and told all God bearing people to come in and drink of the water of life and Christianity free. Dr. Robbins a double Rev. H. H. H. drawing money, and saying to Christ, than any man that ever was in the world. If you had been in the meeting, you would have heard from history that the man who said John the Baptist was the first to be baptized, except the little child. Carter County Bugle.

A Letter From Florida.
UNIONVILLE, FLA., June 15, 1895. Editor Herald:—When I last saw the Hazel Green people I was quite a small girl, but I still remember what kind people they were.

I hope soon to hear that the people of Hazel Green have a train running through their town, for I love to hear of my native county prospering.

We are still living in the "sunny south," and it is sunny indeed, but I do not think that the heat is felt so much here as it is farther north for a mail is situated almost midway between the Gulf of Mexico and the Atlantic Ocean, so we have a breeze which comes up about 3 o'clock in the morning and continues for the rest of the day.

The people are trying to get their melons gathered and shipped before the rainy season sets in and spoils them. From three to seven carloads are sent off daily from Unionville. The other day a boy killed an alligator which was eight feet long. It was in a corn field, which used to be an orange grove, just back of our house. It was skinned and the skin was kept as a souvenir. Its home was in a lake about 200 yards from our house, and every morning I saw it was killed, so would have it following. The alligators seldom molest the people, but they will come out and get little pigs and eat them, and ducks and geese, and finally they move back for them.

I have not seen a live alligator since I have been here, except occasionally I have seen them swimming in the lake with only their nose above water, and they looked like a log floating on the water. With best wishes to all the readers of THE HERALD.

ELIZABETH HENRY.

A Letter From Indian Territory.

RED SPRING, I. T., June 14, '05. Editor Herald:—Will you allow me space in the HAZEL GREEN Herald to tell my friends of Kentucky how the Indians live in this country? Some of the Indians have houses to live in and some don't. The Chickasaws all have houses, and are civilized and most as good as the white people. They don't farm much, but they lease and rent their land out. Most of the Chickasaws have plenty of money. They raise cattle, horses and hogs. They send their children to school with the white children. But the Comanches are not civilized as well as the Chickasaws. Most of them live in Tepees. They have a blanket for their clothing. They don't work any at all. They are too lazy to work. Uncle Sam feeds them. They raise good money points but very few cattle. They have but few farms in their reservation. They have their land leased to stock men and get the grass money every quarter. They have a fine time for a while. They eat raw beef for their food most of the time. They have war dances once or twice a year. Then they take the rag off the bush. They get mad and fight among themselves some times. The squaws have to do all the work. The old bucks don't do anything but eat and sleep. I live one mile from the Comanche reservation, and I see the Indians every day. They say "white man no good, but red man heep good." We have the soldiers in 25 miles of us at Ft. Still. The Indians are afraid of the whiteman if he is no (wario) or no good. I will close before I get too lengthy.

Respectfully,
J. M. AUSTIN.

Six Thousand Carloads of Melons.
Georgia, will have the average crop of watermelons this year—that is, so far as the size of the crop is concerned—while, as to quality, it is expected that they will be ahead of the average. The reports received at the offices of the plant system in this city show that there are 12,000 acres planted along the lines of that road in Georgia, all in the south-western section of the state. The melons average about a car to two acres, which means that Georgia will yield this year about 6,000 cars.

HAZEL GREEN, KY.

THURSDAY, June 27, 1895.

A DEATH WARRANT has been signed for the execution of "Bad Tom" Smith at Jackson Friday of this week.

JAMES SANDERS, colored, who killed his wife, was lynched by a mob of whites and blacks near Port Gibson, Miss. It is reported that the daughter who took part against her mother in the fatal quarrel, will also be hanged.

It is significant that the Republican National League never discovered it had no right to make a declaration of principles until confronted with the silver question. Heretofore the league at all its meetings has been loud and long in the proclamation of its resolutions. Its dodging the issue at Cleveland is in accord with the Republican party's silver record.

JUDGE M. C. SAUFLEY will try at the next term of the Garrard circuit court an action for breach of promise brought by W. C. Stivers against Miss Catherine West. The Judge proposes to try the case before a jury of women, which he can do under the new constitution, and he pleasantly suggests that if he cannot secure a jury in Garrard county he will send to Mercer for one.

Our little neighbor across the hill (the Herald) published at the village of Hazel Green, got badly in the brush last week. This rail road fever which has been an epidemic in Wolfe county has sent a few months has upset the brain of our friend Cooper, and unless there is a radical change very soon he is a gone goblin.—Morgan County Messenger.

Come off! O, come off! You make us weary. THE HERALD's brain is as clear as a silver bell. True, we are slightly disfigured, but we are still in the ring, you bet.

The general council of Philadelphia, at its session last Thursday, decided by a unanimous vote to send the Liberty bell to Atlanta. Some months ago the management of the Exposition asked for the bell, but the request was refused. The matter has been put to the Philadelphia council in a new light since the legislature of Pennsylvania decided to make a state exhibit at the Cotton States and International Exposition, and this unanimous action of the council in favor of taking the Liberty bell to Atlanta was the result.

Our esteemed contemporary, the Morgan County Messenger, got its back up last week at what its "little contemporary, THE HERALD," had to say in connection with the Legislative race now on. She says we should "honestly represent the conditions and circumstances as they are known to exist." Now THE HERALD has nothing to take back. "What I have written I have written," and we are satisfied that she spoke the truth when we said that the situation in this immediate section led us to the conclusion that James B. McCreary did not stand a ghost of a show for our people's suffrages. For the truth of this statement the people will inform us on the 27th.

As to the primary election in preference to precinct mass meetings we were for the former and are yet. Everybody knows that it is the only way to get the correct expression from the people on any question. People are tired of being elbowed and bulldozed around by the so-called "leaders" at mass meetings and the Legislature was aware of this fact when it enacted the primary election laws. We leave off as we began. We are for the primary first, last and all the time.

We asked some one the other day whom we supposed in a position to know, what was the secret of the success of the school at Hazel Green. He replied: "We hire the best teacher that we can afford, and if we find him incompetent we fire him. If complaints are going about, we investigate them and place the fault where it belongs. Both the patron and the teacher are notified, and if the complaint is unjust the complainant is informed that he is in the wrong; if the teacher is to blame he is told to correct the fault or give place to another.—Clay City Chronicle.

The foregoing in the Clay City Chronicle seems to be going the rounds of the press. We do not know who the informant was, but this we know, that he is not informed about our school, if he means the Hazel Green Academy, for the patrons have nothing to do with employing teachers, and nothing to do with investigating faults any more than the patrons of any college or university have to do with such things. All the patrons have to do is to send their children if they wish, or they can keep them at home. The Academy is run upon a high plan, and it finds patrons because of the thorough work done by its teachers. As to our public school, it has a different teacher each year, all due to who the trustees are. If the person who wants to teach the school, is successful in electing his man trustee, then he gets to teach the school, otherwise the other fellow gets to teach it. In five years there have been six different teachers in charge of the Hazel Green public school, which of course ought not to be.

R. G. DENN's Review of Trade says: "From all parts of the U. S. the best advice obtainable tell of the rising tide of trade and industry which threatened here and there to amount too far and too fast. The volume of all business is by no means equal to that of 1892 as yet, though in some important branches it is larger than in that or any other year. Two influences of tremendous power contribute to the rise, the encouraging crop news and the confident replenishing of stocks which have been for two years depleted to the utmost. Excepting the too heavy rains in Texas, the crop reports recently have been highly encouraging. Future injury to cotton cannot be predicted but as yet nothing indicates a yield below 7,500,000 bales, which is not supposed to threaten a famine if commercial and mill stocks were remembered, now exceeding by 2,500,000 bales, full consumption until September 1.

The receipts continue small and consumption close to maximum here and abroad, though the marketing of British goods is not entirely encouraging. Liberal purchases of all products by the South do not indicate the belief that any serious misfortune impends. So the strong trade in wheat-growing states, accordingly with brighter crop prospects. Reports from spring wheat and from the Pacific coast are so cheering that although the loss of winter wheat was large those whose estimates have been the most accurate in recent years, now vary in predictions from 480 to 470 million bushels.

Read THE HERALD and be happy.

"What is the Christian Church?" "It is a body of Christians whose organic union is the result of an earnest and prayerful effort to ascertain and embrace all that is essential to the conception of the Church of Christ, and at the same time to repudiate and reject all that partakes of the nature of a sect.

"It is a product of an attempt to restore the faith and doctrine, the precepts and ordinances, the worship and spirit of the original Apostolic church, as it existed and flourished before the birth of sects, and before the introduction of speculative and misleading doctrines."—J. S. Lamar.

The following table of "Growth of Churches" has been arranged by the Independent, and shows the growth of the several churches during the four years ending Dec. 31st, 1894. At Grassy Lick last Sunday, was held the regular annual baptist foot washing which is always attended by many people. The preaching brethren were Barker, Johnson, Lykins, Blankenship and Byrd. He was put under arrest by Constable Lacy and quiet reigned supreme.

The wonderful success of Ramon's Tonic Liver Pills (and Pellets) in this locality during the last few months should silence all those who complain that they cannot get rid of their sick headaches. If you suffer occasionally with biliousness, sour stomach, dizziness, etc., do not hesitate to ask your druggist for a free sample dose of this remarkable remedy. 25 doses cost only 25 cents and are worth 25 to any one suffering from these annoying complaints.

Carrier pigeons are gifted with a wonderful and almost human instinct. A few days since, as a buggy was seen to wend its way towards town from Torrent, a pigeon soared into the air and disappeared in the direction of St. Helena. Next evening a fleetly steed covered with foam, and bearing on his back a noble Spartan youth, came dashing into town. He is now registered at the Day House, recuperating from his long and perilous ride, and praising the noble bird that attended him.

To Bee or Not to Bee.

Whether it is better to suffer the stings of Italian bees for sweetest sake or not is a question for every farmer to consider. Billy Patrick says it is a good business enterprise and a paying one. He not only raises enough honey for his own wants but sells hundreds of pounds every year. It is an enterprise that requires comparatively no capital and is attended with no expense save a few leisure hours. The whole output is a clear profit, and we can't understand why our people don't pay more attention to bee raising than they do. Billy was in town last week and sold about 500 pounds at a good price. He says that there's millions (of stings) in it.

Flat Happenings.

The M. E. Church North are preparing to build a church house on M. M. Shackelford's farm, near the place known as Antioch. They have the lot staked off and deeded, the funds raised and part of the timber cut and sawed. The house is to be 34x48 and 16 feet high.

A sad happening has agitated this section considerably for the last few days. Peter Cable, one of our best citizens and neighbor, suddenly became insane while plowing in his field. Mr. Cable has always been a man of good intelligence, robust and has led from childhood the happy life of a farmer, and the cause of his insanity is an unsolved problem in the minds of his friends and neighbors.

On the 13th inst., there passed from among us to the realms of bliss one of the oldest veterans of our country. Uncle Billy Horton, a man honored and beloved by all who knew him. He was a Veteran by birth, but emigrated to Kentucky while he was young, and founded for himself a home, and a name that commands the respect of all. He was a man of noble mind and heart, true to God, and always kind to his fellowman. No one in need ever went empty handed from his door. The unfortunate who sympathized with, and no one within his knowledge ever languished in sickness, but what he was ever ready to attend them in their afflictions. "I render all the assistance human hands could give. For many years he has suffered down the steps of old age, his form bent beneath the load of years, his sliver locks ripe for the harvest of the tomb, yet ever looking to God, and hoping and trusting that life of bliss beyond this vale of mortality. He was a reader, (not unwillingly) the evening, and laying down his weary load on the mundane shores of time, sank to rest in the arms of God; closed his eyes upon the transitory scenes of earth life, only to open them among the grand realities of a best eternity. SUCCEM.

MORGAN COUNTY.

The funeral services of Wm. H. Lawson, was preached yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock, at the family burying ground by Rev. J. C. Roney, presiding elder of the M. E. church, who was assisted by Rev. J. C. Roney and Rev. J. C. Roney. The funeral services were held at the family burying ground, and a splendid dinner and necessary arrangement to feed the entire gathering, gave a public invitation to all. But be it to the strains of the few that rushed up like hungry wolves before the table could be spread, and soon some were seen crowding out with as many as three pies and more meat than they had eat in the past six months. You may call them what you please, but if they had stayed at home there would have been plenty for all. WINGLESS.

Ezel Evolutions.

Burford Pieratt and wife are visiting at West Liberty.

The West Liberty nine will play the Ezel nine a match game of base ball Saturday, the 29th.

Valney Nickell was recently appointed deputy sheriff in this county, while making some collections last week, one of the parties, a woman, became offended and gave him an exhibition of "cursing by note."

Asa B. Pieratt and G. W. Good are attending the convention at Louisville this week. Asa is a great politician and while he was getting ready to start, his policies made him feel as large as Gopher, and during this excitement he put on his father's coat and did not notice the mistake until after he started.

BLURT.

Caney Cullings.

Born, to the wife of Henry C. Candill, June 20, a girl.

Wheat cutting is in full blast and never was better in this section.

A Good Appetite

Always accompanies good health, and an absence of appetite is an indication of something wrong. The least functional desire for food is soon followed by lack of strength, for when the supply of fuel is cut off the fire burns low. The system gets into a low state, and is liable to severe attacks of disease. The universal testimony given by those who used Hood's Sarsaparilla, as to its great merits in restoring and sharpening the appetite, in promoting healthy action of the digestive organs, and as a purifier of the blood, constitutes the strongest recommendation that can be urged for any medicine. Those who have never used Hood's Sarsaparilla should surely do so this season.
